Introducing your new Society

United in Underwriting

Committed to professional excellence

Your new Society

The Society of Underwriting Professionals is the new professional body dedicated to those working within the underwriting sector. Offering a truly enhanced member experience, we are here to support you at every stage of your career and transform how you engage and interact with your professional body.

Providing a dedicated programme of continuing professional development and good practice guidance, we will focus on addressing the key developments that impact upon underwriting, ensuring members are kept up to date with the latest trends and evolution of the sector.

Aligned with the Chartered Insurance Institute's Royal Charter commitment of building public trust, we are committed to raising professional standards through instilling the importance of professional ethics and a customer-centric culture. Working closely with the Government and regulators, we will ensure that best practice is promoted and championed, helping to achieve better customer outcomes.

Dedicated to your development

Practical and business-relevant support to meet your career needs

Our commitment to your ongoing development means supporting you through your qualifications and beyond. Whilst professional qualifications demonstrate your competence, membership provides you with the assets to help you succeed.

Governance and Leadership

The Society Board comprises of leading market practitioners whose role is to ensure that we focus our efforts on topics and issues that support your development and benefit the underwriting community. Identifying key areas for greater research and content development, we work closely with market experts to produce sector-defining reports and insight.

Combined with the work from our Policy & Public Affairs team, the Society of Underwriting Professionals is placed to become the go-to authority for key insights and practical recommendations for regulatory change.

Relevant CPD

Engaging CPD content focuses on what really matters to you. Sector-specific videos, podcasts, webinars, good practice guides, digital magazines and event live-streaming will provide you with an unrivalled variety of high-quality content.

Whilst there will be an emphasis on delivering rich, digital experiences that can be accessed anytime, anywhere, there will also be a programme of face-to-face events to help you build a robust professional network.

Building a strong community

This is just the beginning of our journey that will enable greater engagement with a range of key stakeholders, growing our reach and influence to help us achieve our goal of powering professional standards.

“The Society of Underwriting Professionals is a community for individuals working in the underwriting sector. We represent the interests of our members by providing access to high-quality, relevant content and good practice guidance, which encourages high professional standards and public trust in insurance underwriting.”

Phil Williams,
Non-Executive Director, Society of Underwriting Professionals

Standards.

Setting standards for competence & professionalism and influencing the future direction of the underwriting sector.

Professionalism.

Driving the profession forward through technical expertise, ethical behaviour and a strong culture of learning and development.

Trust.

Building public trust within the underwriting sector, increasing the credibility of the sector with government, policymakers, regulators and consumers.

The Society of Underwriting Professionals, part of the Chartered Insurance Institute, is a professional body dedicated to those working in the underwriting sector.

The core objective of the Society is to engender consumer confidence and trust in the profession. It does this through a focus on raising professional standards and by supporting its members with a code of ethics, good practice guidance, thought leadership and a programme of topical and dedicated continuing professional development.

The Society also provides a voice with regulators and other key bodies on issues related to underwriting professionals and public trust – making sure your best interests and those of your customers are represented throughout the sector.
